NOTICE OF <<SECURITY INCIDENT/DATA BREACH>>

Dear <<Name 1>> <<Name 2>>:

Insightin Health, Inc. (“Insightin”) is writing to tell you about a situation that may affect the privacy of some of your information. Insightin is a software company that provides services to its clients, including <>. We do not know of anyone using your information to commit identity theft or fraud, but we want to explain what happened and what you can do to protect yourself.

What Happened?

In September 2025, we found unusual activity in our computer system. An unauthorized person got into our network by using a new, unknown problem in our vendor’s software. We began an investigation with help from outside experts.

We learned that some files on a small number of our servers may have been looked at or copied without permission between September 17, 2025, and September 23, 2025. We fixed the problem right away and began a careful review of the files to see what information was affected and who it belonged to.

This review was recently finished. Between December 4 and December 18, 2025, we gave information about the incident to our clients (your health plan) and worked with them to identify the people who might be affected.

What Information Was Involved?

You are receiving this letter because the review showed that your information was in the files that may have been accessed. This included your name and the following information: <>.

No Social Security numbers or financial information were in these files.

What We Are Doing.

We take this incident very seriously. As soon as we learned about it, we made sure our systems were secure. We reviewed our policies and added extra protections to help prevent this from happening again. We also reported the incident to law enforcement and regulators.

As an extra step, we are offering you <<12/24>> months of free credit monitoring through [CM vendor]. Instructions for how to enroll are included in the attached “Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information.” Because of privacy rules, we cannot enroll you automatically.

What You Can Do.

We encourage you to watch your account statements and check your free credit reports for any unusual activity for the next 12 to 24 months. Please read the enclosed “Steps You Can Take to Help Protect Your Information” for more details.

For More Information.

If you have questions, please call our help line at [phone number], Monday through Friday, [business hours], Eastern Time. You can also write to Insightin at:

Monitor Your Accounts

Under U.S. law, a consumer is entitled to one free credit report annually from each of the three major credit reporting bureaus, Equifax, Experian, and TransUnion. To order a free credit report, visit www.annualcreditreport.com or call, toll-free, 1-877-322-8228. Consumers may also directly contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below to request a free copy of their credit report.

Consumers have the right to place an initial or extended “fraud alert” on a credit file at no cost. An initial fraud alert is a 1-year alert that is placed on a consumer’s credit file. Upon seeing a fraud alert display on a consumer’s credit file, a business is required to take steps to verify the consumer’s identity before extending new credit. If consumers are the victim of identity theft, they are entitled to an extended fraud alert, which is a fraud alert lasting seven years. Should consumers wish to place a fraud alert, please contact any of the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below.

As an alternative to a fraud alert, consumers have the right to place a “credit freeze” on a credit report, which will prohibit a credit bureau from releasing information in the credit report without the consumer’s express authorization. The credit freeze is designed to prevent credit, loans, and services from being approved in a consumer’s name without consent. However, consumers should be aware that using a credit freeze to take control over who gets access to the personal and financial information in their credit report may delay, interfere with, or prohibit the timely approval of any subsequent request or application they make regarding a new loan, credit, mortgage, or any other account involving the extension of credit. Pursuant to federal law, consumers cannot be charged to place or lift a credit freeze on their credit report. To request a credit freeze, individuals may need to provide some or all of the following information:

1. Full name (including middle initial as well as Jr., Sr., II, III, etc.);
2. Social Security number;
3. Date of birth;
4. Addresses for the prior two to five years;
5. Proof of current address, such as a current utility bill or telephone bill;
6. A legible photocopy of a government-issued identification card (state driver’s license or ID card, etc.); and
7. A copy of either the police report, investigative report, or complaint to a law enforcement agency concerning identity theft if they are a victim of identity theft.

Should consumers wish to place a credit freeze or fraud alert, please contact the three major credit reporting bureaus listed below:

Additional Information

Consumers may further educate themselves regarding identity theft, fraud alerts, credit freezes, and the steps they can take to protect your personal information by contacting the consumer reporting bureaus, the Federal Trade Commission, or their state Attorney General. The Federal Trade Commission may be reached at: 600 Pennsylvania Avenue NW, Washington, D.C. 20580; www.identitytheft.gov; 1-877-ID-THEFT (1-877-438-4338); and TTY: 1-866-653-4261. The Federal Trade Commission also encourages those who discover that their information has been misused to file a complaint with them.

Consumers can obtain further information on how to file such a complaint by way of the contact information listed above. Consumers have the right to file a police report if they ever experience identity theft or fraud. Please note that in order to file a report with law enforcement for identity theft, consumers will likely need to provide some proof that they have been a victim. Instances of known or suspected identity theft should also be reported to law enforcement and the relevant state Attorney General. This notice has not been delayed by law enforcement.

For District of Columbia residents, the District of Columbia Attorney General may be contacted at: 400 6th Street, NW, Washington, D.C. 20001; (202) 442-9828; and oag.dc.gov.

For New Mexico residents, consumers have rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act, such as the right to be told if information in their credit file has been used against them, the right to know what is in their credit file, the right to ask for their credit score, and the right to dispute incomplete or inaccurate information. Further, pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act, the consumer reporting bureaus must correct or delete inaccurate, incomplete, or unverifiable information; consumer reporting agencies may not report outdated negative information; access to consumers' files is limited; consumers must give consent for credit reports to be provided to employers; consumers may limit "prescreened" offers of credit and insurance based on information in their credit report; and consumers may seek damages from violators. Consumers may have additional rights under the Fair Credit Reporting Act not summarized here. Identity theft victims and active-duty military personnel have specific additional rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act. We encourage consumers to review their rights pursuant to the Fair Credit Reporting Act by visiting www.consumerfinance.gov/f/201504_cfpb_summary_your-rights-under-fcra.pdf, or by writing Consumer Response Center, Room 130-A, Federal Trade Commission, 600 Pennsylvania Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20580.
