Re: Legal Notice of Information Security Incident

Dear Sirs or Madams:

I write on behalf of my client, Caliber Home Loans, Inc. ("Caliber"), to inform you of a security incident involving personal information provided to Caliber that affected approximately 20,437 Washington residents. Caliber is notifying these individuals and outlining some steps they may take to help protect themselves.

Based upon an extensive investigation, it appears that unauthorized individuals gained the ability to access a limited number of electronically-stored loan files, and may have had access to other documents containing personally-identifying information. In addition, the unauthorized individuals may have had access to sufficient information in order to gain access to certain customers' online Caliber accounts, if the customer had not previously set up such an account.

The files and documents that were subject to unauthorized access may have contained certain customers' sensitive or identifying information, such as social security number, driver's license number, military or other government ID number, or date of birth; financial account names, numbers, and statements; digital signatures, and/or information that an individual may be able to use to access a customer's online Caliber account or data storage sites containing borrower submissions. A limited number of customers' files may also have contained information related to health insurance, including member ID numbers.

Caliber takes the privacy of personal information seriously, and deeply regrets that this incident occurred. Caliber took steps to address and contain this incident promptly after it was discovered, including engaging outside forensic experts to assist in investigating and remedying the situation. Caliber is reviewing its security policies and configuring and updating its systems to improve their security. In addition, we have contacted law enforcement and will continue to cooperate in their investigation of this incident.

Affected individuals are being notified via written letter, which includes an offer for two years of complimentary identity protection and fraud resolution services. These notifications will begin mailing on or around June 23, 2017. Form copies of the notices being sent to affected Washington residents are included for your reference.

If you have any questions or need further information regarding this incident, please contact me at (303) 801-2732 or david.navetta@nortonrosefulbright.com

Very truly yours,

Dear Sample A Sample,

Caliber Home Loans, Inc. has learned that, like so many other companies, it has been the victim of a security incident that may affect the personal information of certain individuals who have sought home loans from or with the assistance of Caliber, or provided information in connection with such loans. I want to let you know what happened, and outline steps that you can take to effectively safeguard your personal information. We sincerely apologize for any concern that this notice may cause you, but we hope that the below information and resources that we have provided are helpful.

What Happened

Based upon an extensive investigation conducted by a leading forensic firm, it appears that unauthorized individuals gained the ability to access a limited number of electronically-stored loan files, and may have had access to other documents containing personally-identifying information. In addition, the unauthorized individuals may have had access to sufficient information in order to gain access to certain customers' online Caliber accounts, if the customer had not previously set up such an account.

What Information Was Involved?

The files and documents that were subject to unauthorized access may have contained certain customers' sensitive or identifying information, such as social security number, driver's license number, military or other government ID number, or date of birth; financial account names, numbers, and statements; digital signatures, and/or information that an individual may be able to use to access a customer's online Caliber account or data storage sites containing borrower submissions. A limited number of customers' files may also have contained information related to health insurance, including member ID numbers.

What Caliber is Doing to Support Customers

Once the incident was discovered, we promptly took steps to address and contain it, including engaging outside forensic experts to assist us in investigating and remedying the situation. We are reviewing our security policies and configuring and updating our systems to improve their security. In addition, we have contacted law enforcement and will continue to cooperate in their investigation of this incident.

Information about Identity Theft Protection

We recommend that you review your credit and debit card account statements as soon as possible in order to determine if there are any discrepancies or unusual activity listed. You should remain vigilant and continue to monitor your statements for unusual activity going forward. If you see anything you do not understand or that looks suspicious, or if you suspect that any fraudulent transactions have taken place, you should call the bank that issued your credit or debit card immediately.

As a precaution, you may regularly review statements from your accounts and periodically obtain your credit report from one or more of the national credit reporting companies. You may obtain a free copy of your credit report online at www.annualcreditreport.com, by calling toll-free 1-877-322-8228, or by mailing an Annual Credit Report Request Form (available at www.annualcreditreport.com) to: Annual Credit Report Request Service, P.O. Box 105281, Atlanta, GA, 30348-5281. You may also purchase a copy of your credit report by contacting one or more of the three national credit reporting agencies listed at the bottom of this page.

You should remain vigilant with respect to reviewing your account statements and credit reports, and you should promptly report any suspicious activity or suspected identity theft to us and to the proper law enforcement authorities, including local law enforcement, your state's attorney general, and/or the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"). You may contact the FTC or your state's regulatory authority to obtain additional information about avoiding and protection against identity theft: Federal Trade Commission, Consumer Response Center 600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20580, 1-877-IDTHEFT (438-4338), www.ftc.gov/idtheft

For residents of Maryland: You may also obtain information about preventing and avoiding identity theft from the Maryland Office of the Attorney General: Maryland Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Division, 200 St. Paul Place, Baltimore, MD 21202, 1-888-743-0023, www.oag.state.md.us

For residents of North Carolina: You may also obtain information about preventing and avoiding identity theft from North Carolina Attorney General's Office: North Carolina Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, 9001 Mail Service Center, Raleigh, NC 27699-9001, 1-877-5-NO-SCAM, www.ncdoj.gov

For residents of Rhode Island: You may also obtain information about preventing and avoiding identity theft from the Rhode Island Office of the Attorney General: Rhode Island Office of the Attorney General, Consumer Protection Unit, 150 South Main Street, Providence, RI 02903, 401-274-4400, <http://www.riag.ri.gov>.

Fraud Alerts: There are two types of fraud alerts that you can place on your credit report to put your creditors on notice that you may be a victim of fraud: an initial alert and an extended alert. You may ask that an initial fraud alert be placed on your credit report if you suspect you have been, or are about to be, a victim of identity theft. An initial fraud alert stays on your credit report for at least 90 days. You may have an extended alert placed on your credit report if you have already been a victim of identity theft with the appropriate documentary proof. An extended fraud alert stays on your credit report for seven years. You can place a fraud alert on your credit report by contacting any of the three national credit reporting agencies at the addresses or toll-free numbers listed at the bottom of this page.

Credit Freezes: You may have the right to put a credit freeze, also known as a security freeze, on your credit file, so that no new credit can be opened in your name without the use of a PIN number that is issued to you when you initiate a freeze. A credit freeze is designed to prevent potential credit grantors from accessing your credit report without your consent. If you place a credit freeze, potential creditors and other third parties will not be able to get access to your credit report unless you temporarily lift the freeze. Therefore, using a credit freeze may delay your ability to obtain credit. In addition, you may incur fees to place, lift and/or remove a credit freeze. Credit freeze laws vary from state to state. The cost of placing, temporarily lifting, and removing a credit freeze also varies by state, generally $5 to $20 per action at each credit reporting company. Unlike a fraud alert, you must separately place a credit freeze on your credit file at each credit reporting company. Since the instructions for how to establish a credit freeze differ from state to state, please contact the three major credit reporting companies as specified below to find out more information.

You can obtain more information about fraud alerts and credit freezes by contacting the FTC or one of the national credit reporting agencies listed below.
